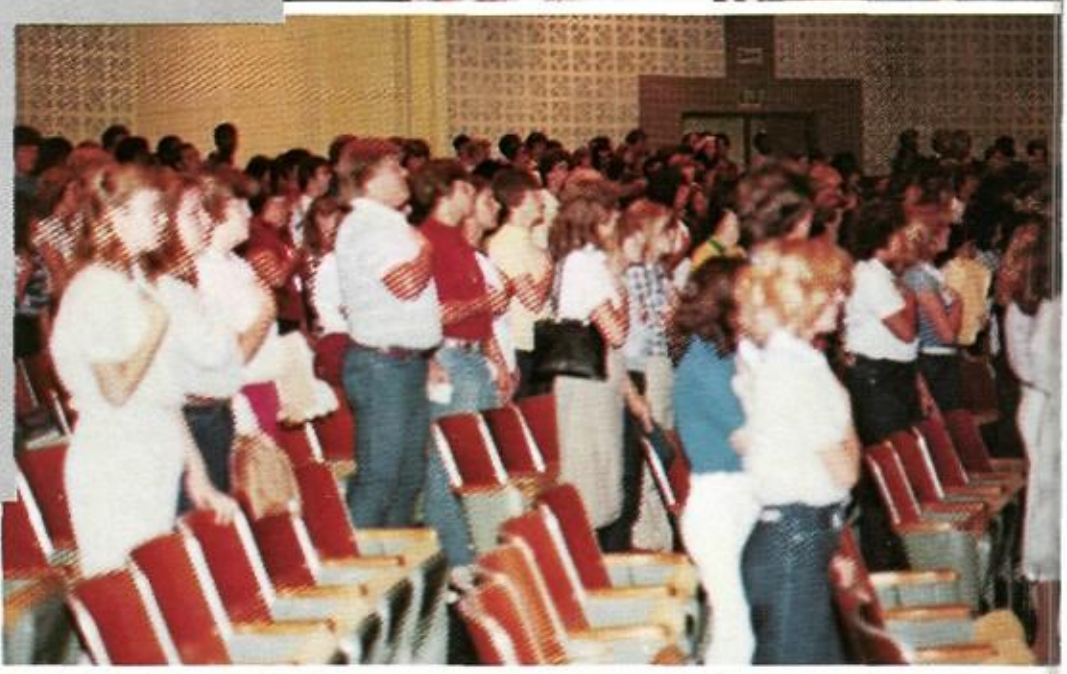
The word cardinal has nine separate meanings and is used as part of twenty-five other words or titles. Most indicate in some way that something is of "central" or principal importance. The 1982 Cardinal yearbook has set out to show how East Central students truly do reflect and deserve the title of cardinals. In truth we are "Clearly Cardinals."

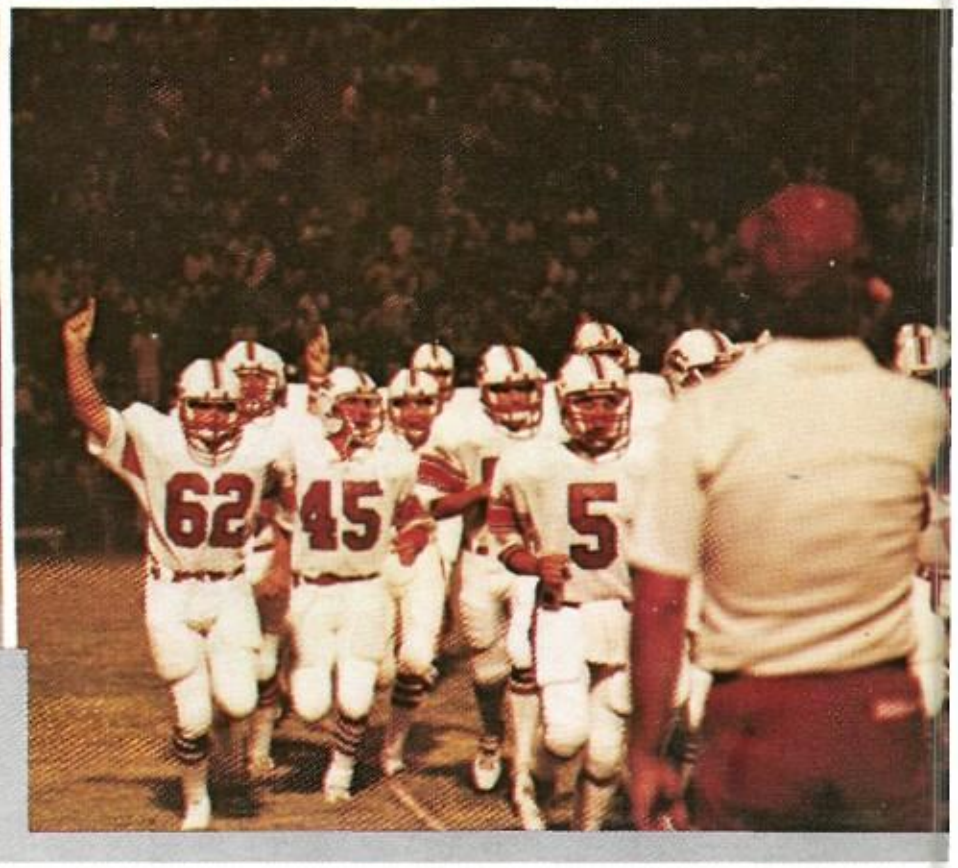
The Cardinal, Volume XVI
East Central High School
Tulsa, Oklahoma, 1982

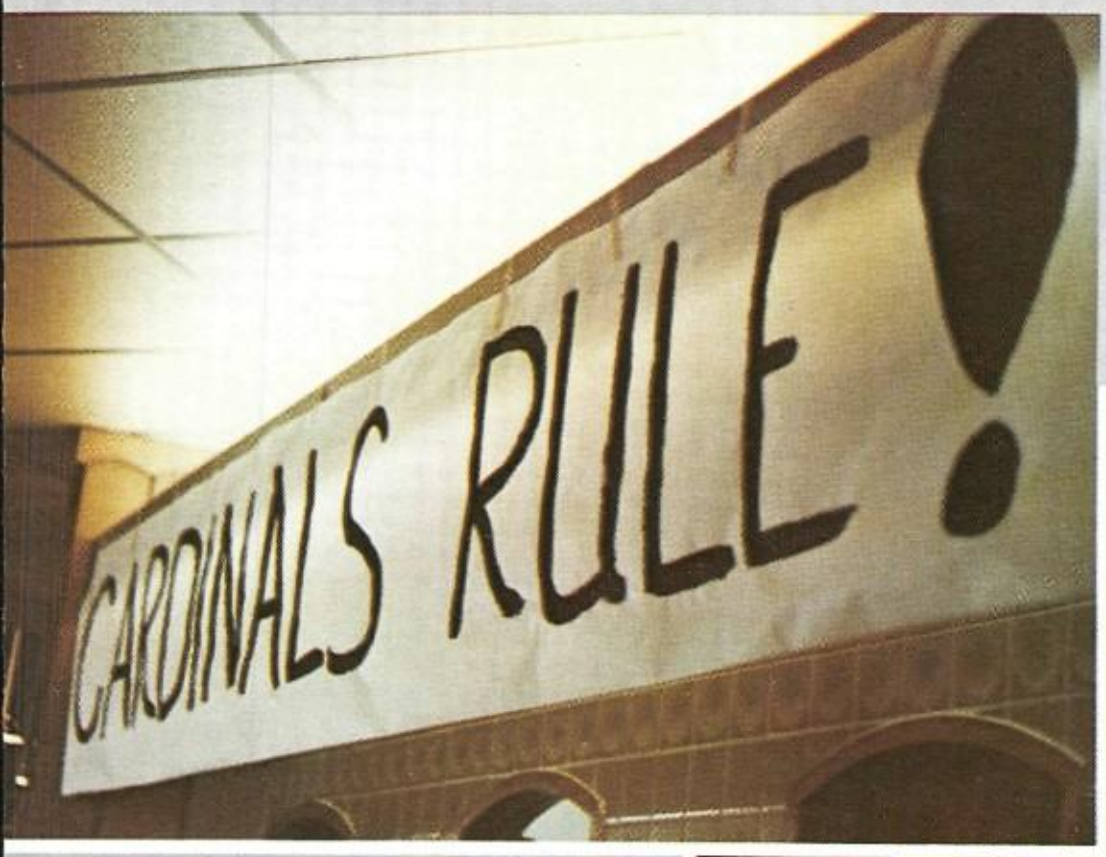
"CLEARLY CARDINALS . . ."

Clearly 'Cardinal Virtues' . . .

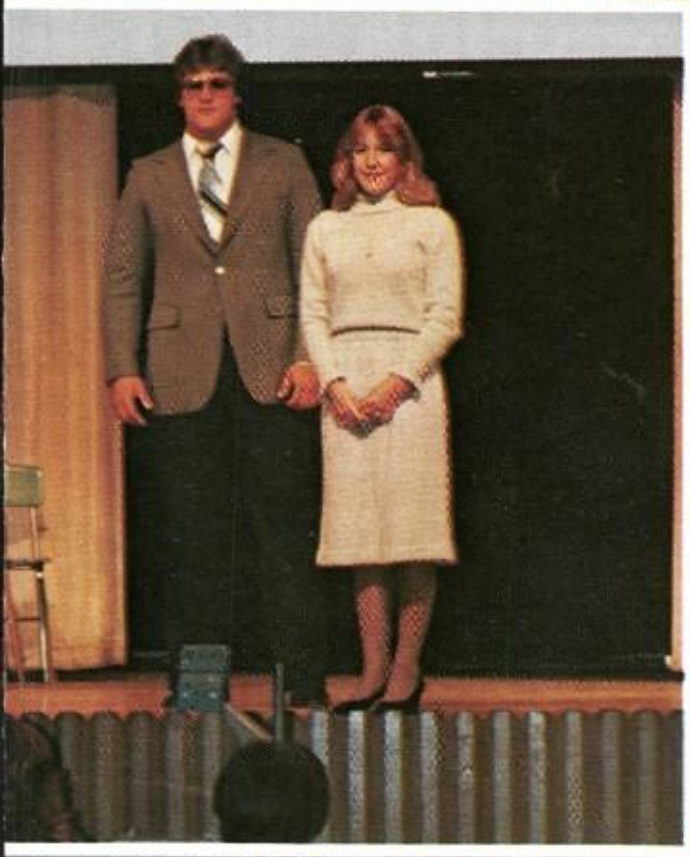
"Cardinal virtues" compose a group of seven characteristics held in high esteem by the ancient scholars. The "natural" virtues of prudence, justice, temperance and fortitude as well as the theological virtues of faith, hope and charity are included. As seen here, East Central students have no trouble revealing that they "clearly" possess cardinal virtues. The practice of prudence is normally not reflected by punk parties, however, students pledging allegiance are reminded of the final phrase, "and justice for all." Temperance, or the abstinence from alcohol, sometimes requires major decision making on the part of students. Fortitude or strength is easily seen on our fields of play. Faith was necessary for many to even enter or watch these fields, and hope often accompanied the fans' and players' emotions. Charity was evidenced too by many organizational fund raisers, but ball girls practiced it as well. E.C. students clearly do reflect these seven "cardinal virtues."

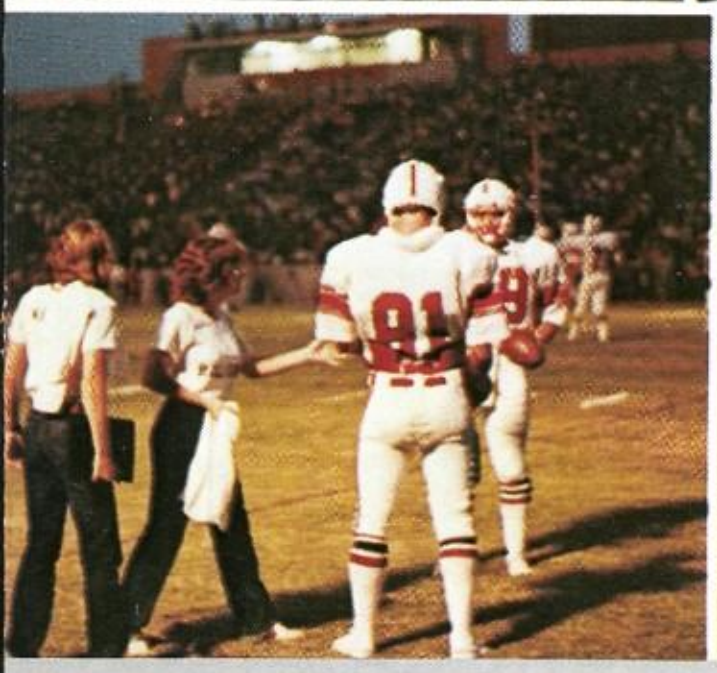






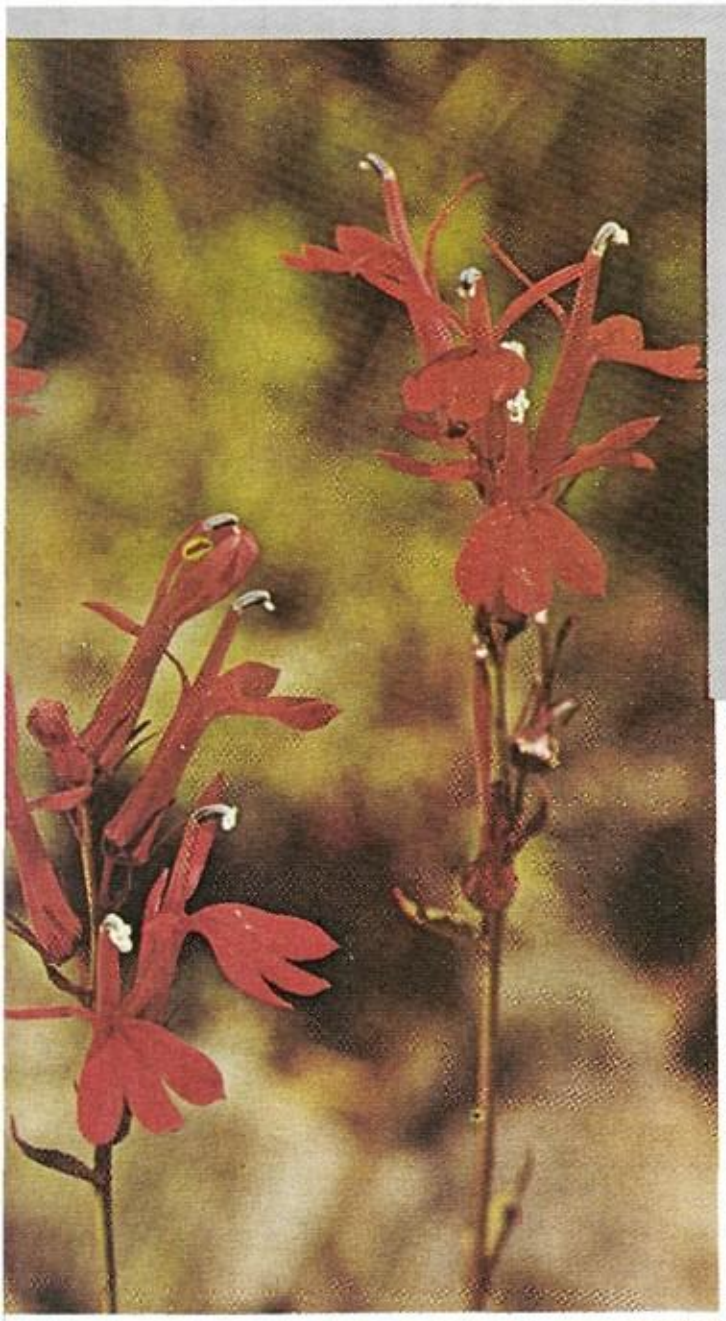
CARDINALS RULE!





Cardinals 'clearly' mean many things . . .

A commonly used teen-age condiment, better known as ketchup, might accurately depict "cardinal sauce," a french white sauce variously flavored and colored red. - Students need direction, and the "cardinal points," or the principal points of the compass (north, south, east and west) provide help for those who need it in this area. - "To leap for joy" was the Middle High German meaning of the word cardinal (scherzen.) Our cheerleaders easily fulfill this definition on any spirited cardinal occasion.



The "cardinal flower" blooms late in the season, August and well into September. It is at home along shaded streams and in most thickets in many parts of the eastern United States. Some E.C. students have proven late bloomers as well. - East Tulsa provides an excellent location for students who enjoy a "cardinal wind," or one that blows directly from one of the four cardinal points of the compass. - Our bronze "cardinal" symbolizes any of several American songbirds of the southern and middle United States, the male being bright red with a black face, pointed crest and loud song and the female bird being much duller in color . . . E.R.A. girls need to do something about this! - The word "cardinal" itself can refer to a woman's short hooded cloak originally of scarlet cloth. Do you think our football players got this a little backward, especially at those rainy games?

The yearbook has a special section for Seniors entitled "Hall of Fame." The students elected to this honor are well-rounded in school activities, not necessarily those of high academic standing only. The total Hall of Fame members usually comprise approximate 10% of the graduating class. Each faculty member, counselor, and principal chose approximately 10 students who in their opinion, would be most deserving of this honor. All subject and interest areas are represented.

Counselors

The counselors play a very important role at East Central. They supervise students during classes every day. They also help students make important decisions during their high school years. The counselors help sophomores and juniors plan what courses they are to take and arrange for schedule changes when they are needed. They also are a very big help to seniors by helping with college plans and informing students about scholarships, grants and loans. All students benefit in some way from the work that counselors do.

The study of English is essential for a thorough high school education. Realizing the importance of an English curriculum and a concurrent responsibility to provide meaningful learning experiences, the English department has organized its subject matter accordingly. Besides course work in grammar and composition, sophomores experience stimulating units in American literature. Thus, through challenging instruction in language arts, students receive many unique skills necessary for successful lives after graduation.

Mr. Robert Owen has offered 13 years of dedication as a faculty member to the students of East Central High School. Mr. Owen has the attitude that E.C. is not simply his place of employment but a place of fellowship between himself, students, and other faculty members. The knowledge that his students gain in his class is very important to Mr. Owen. He has even been known to call students when they have been ill to be sure that they were aware of what they had missed when they were absent from school. Mr. Owen is very devoted to the job he does and also realizes that dedication to his school does not end at 2:45 p.m. with the ringing of the final bell each day. Being cast into a major, male role, Mr. Owen took part in the production of the April 1981 All-School-Play, "Auntie Mame". Mr. Owen is one of the few faculty members who makes their way up to the journalism room to comment on the school newspaper. He is the only instructor that teaches Greek in the Tulsa Public School system. Mr. Owen is the sponsor of Chess and Strategy and the Greek Clubs. Each year, Mr. Owen leads Greek students in campaigns to aid useful causes in the world, ranging from sending clothing to needy children in Athens, Greece, to the crusade to "Save the Beta Phi Phis" (black-footed ferrets, an endangered species). For all the years of dedication, for the many people whose lives he has touched and will continue to touch, for the knowledge others have gained and will gain because of him, for his loyalty to our school, here is a dedication from us, his admirers.

Having only five coaches, the junior varsity had to deal with a large handicap this past season. Since the coaching staff was one member short, all the coaches had to work with both the varsity and the junior varsity. In working with the junior varsity, Coach Leon Luce worked with receivers, defensive secondary, secondary backs and wide receivers. Coach Doug Manning helped the offensive backs and defensive secondary. Coach Jack Krieder worked with the offensive line. Coach Luce said, "Due to the fact that we were one coach short, we were unable to work on the mistakes or with the individual players." The team consisted of 32 players, and seven of those also played on varsity.

Varsity Baseball

The Baseball team was coached by Mr. Dave Stauffer. The team was dominated by thirteen seniors. Coach Stauffer not only expected excellent performance on the field, but off the field as well. The players were to have good manners and habits at all times. 67 former E.C. players have played in college and 6 in the pros. Their motto was, "Practice doesn't make perfect, perfect practice makes perfect." In six years, the baseball team has combined a record of 205 wins and 83 losses. Coach Stauffer feels, "If you never give up you've always got a chance to get lucky," and "it ain't over till it's over."

This year, soccer was added to East Central's sports program as a club sport. The boys' team, led by Mike King and Jon Payne, compiled a 3-2 record with wins over Washington, Hale, and Memorial. Doug Rawlinson and Greg Strope signed letters of intent with colleges of their choice during the month of February, 1982. Doug, signing with Brigham Young University, located in Utah, feels that he is fulfilling a life long dream of being a cougar. Greg signed with the University of Oklahoma, after being highly recruited by many state colleges. Greg decided on O.U. when they played their fight song Boomer Sooner . . . "I knew I couldn't go anywhere else." Anthony Bowie and William Childs were sure to sign with colleges to play basketball and Coaches Rodger Lefler and Raymond McGill felt certain they would be big successes. Coach John Hogan was very proud of Doug and Greg as well.

Family watches as Greg makes his sign.

In keeping with the numerous meanings the word "cardinal" provides us with, so do our juniors provide us with several appropriate analogies for these definitions. The ancient Sanskrit word for cardinal (kurdat) meant to leap, and juniors obviously no longer fear their better positions in school life. They recklessly "shake or brandish" (Greek meaning of kraden or cardinal) their new rank, and bump or swell (kordyle) their heads in their process.

Juniors Learn To Pull Rank

Sophomores 'Spring' And 'Turn' Into Cardinals

Being new to East Central High School is not easy for anyone much less a baby cardinal fresh out of its nest. As the year progressed, most observers could see that these high school novices were 'springing' up all over and 'turning' into full fledged raving red birds. In the ancient language of Sanskrit, the word cardinal actually meant to spring or turn!!!!!!

Baby Birds Become "Clearly Cardinals"

Just as the sophomores represent a wide spectrum of personalities so does the word cardinal have as many meanings. Whether they "rush of hasten" (the Old English meaning for cardinal) or "stagger or fall" (Old Norse), these baby birds attempt thrilling leaps into the skies of East Central. All can see they are Clearly Cardinals.

Senior Cheerleaders

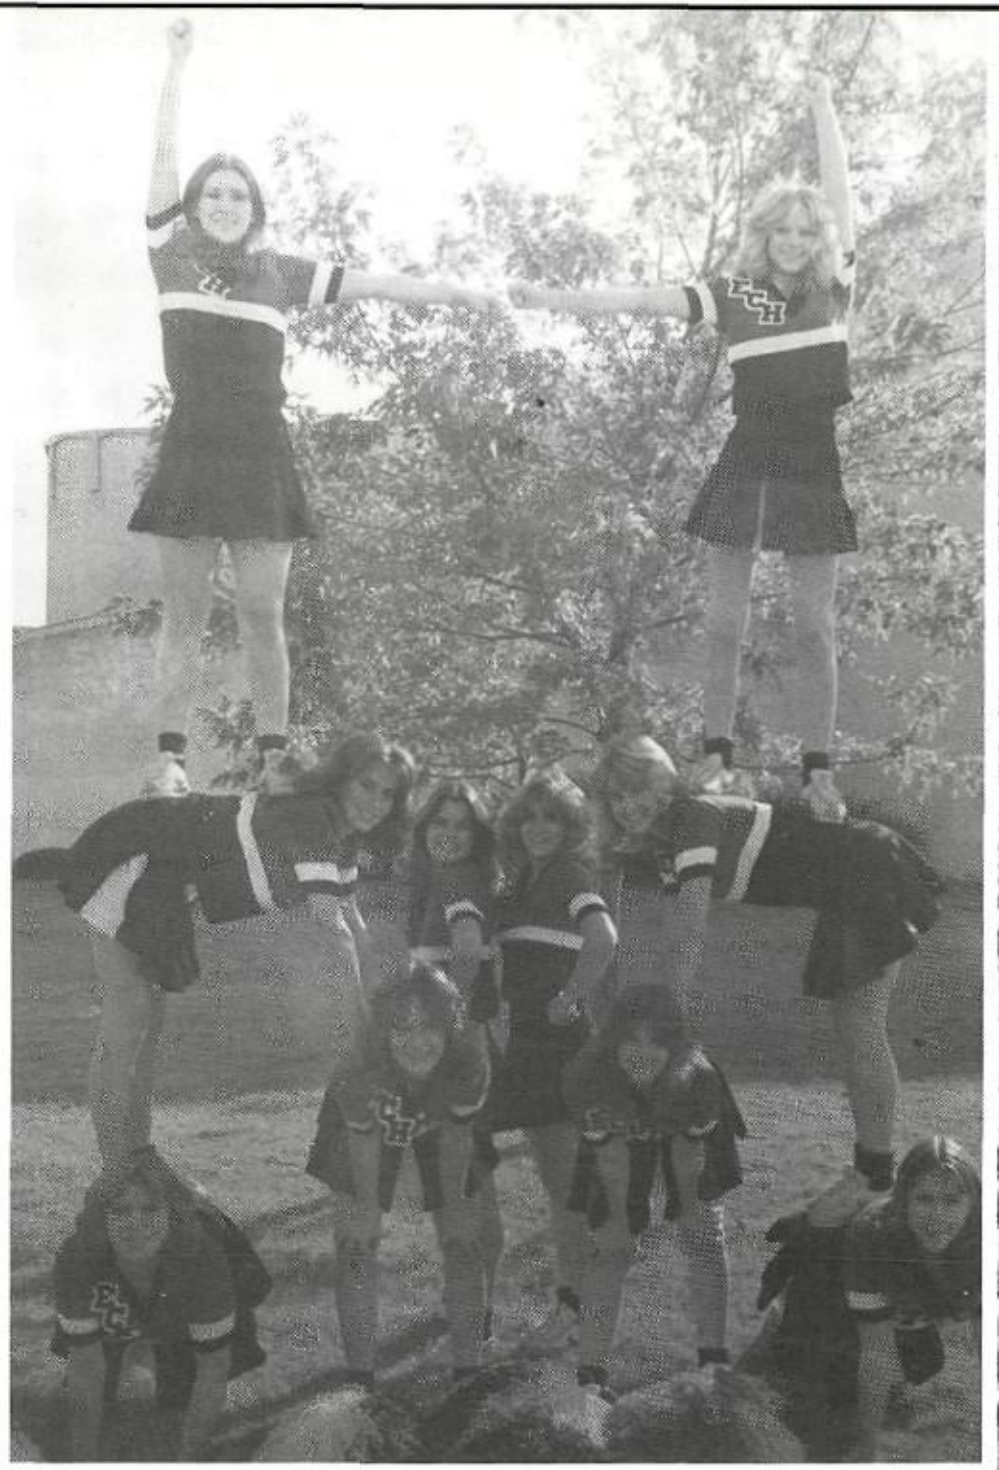
The senior cheerleaders started the year out by holding a cheerleading clinic for area Junior High schools to raise money for cheerleading camp and uniforms. They attended a NCA camp in Wilburton, Oklahoma and brought home the Spirit Award. This award is given to one squad at camp for their continuing spirit during the week. The award is voted upon by the girls of the camp. They were also finalists for the award of excellence. During September they competed against other Tulsa schools at OSU and again were awarded the "Spirit Award". The Senior cheerleaders ended the year cheering the wrestlers on and helping with tryouts for the up-coming year. They are all looking forward to the next year and a busy year at college.

Junior Cheerleaders



This years junior cheerleaders had a little trouble showing spirit due to the fact that they had to split, in order to cheer for Varsity basketball, along with timing swim meets. Thinking ahead to next years squad, junior cheerleading sponsor, Brenda Summers, is hoping for a better year of cheering.

How do sophomore cheerleaders feel about cheering? "It was the most!" (a typical Rhonda Holt quote.) "The practices were a drag, but we got radical to the max at the games," says Suzi Black, head cheerleader. And as Kelli Sikes summed it up, "It was really cosmic, man!" Those are sophomores for ya'!

Mu Alpha Theta is a nationally chartered math club which is sponsored by Mr. James Sparks. Requirements for acceptance are two units of college preparatory math, with a "B" grade average or better. Mu Alpha Theta also sponsors the National Math Test, in which high-scoring participants compete in a series of tests until the final winners compete in the Mathematics Olympiad. This competition helps recognize the real Einsteins.

Medical Club

Medical Club got off to a good start with Mrs. Marilyn Yoachum as its sponsor for the second year in a row. Having at least one guest speaker a month brought a lot of student involvement. Each meeting was open to whoever wanted to attend. Dr. Helen Inbody, a psychologist in private practice, came and spoke to the club which sparked a big interest with the students. The topic of hypnotism was a big favorite. This years club had one of the biggest turnouts in membership involving both juniors and seniors.

Key Club

Sam Whisenhunt and John Flippo had their work cut out for them this year when they chose to help sponsor Key Club. The group, made up of girls as well as boys, spent a lot of time contributing their spirit and good will to East Central as well as the community. We appreciate all their consideration.

F.B.L.A.

FBLA provides opportunities for business students to develop leadership qualities. State wide activities include a leadership conference in Oklahoma City in October for the chapter officers and a conference in April for competitive events. City wide activities include a dance to raise money for the March of Dimes. This is an annual event. Parents, teachers, administrators and state education department members attend the installation of officers and members held at the Education Service Center. Locally, the FBLA holds meetings to plan fund raising activities to pay for attendance at the state conference.

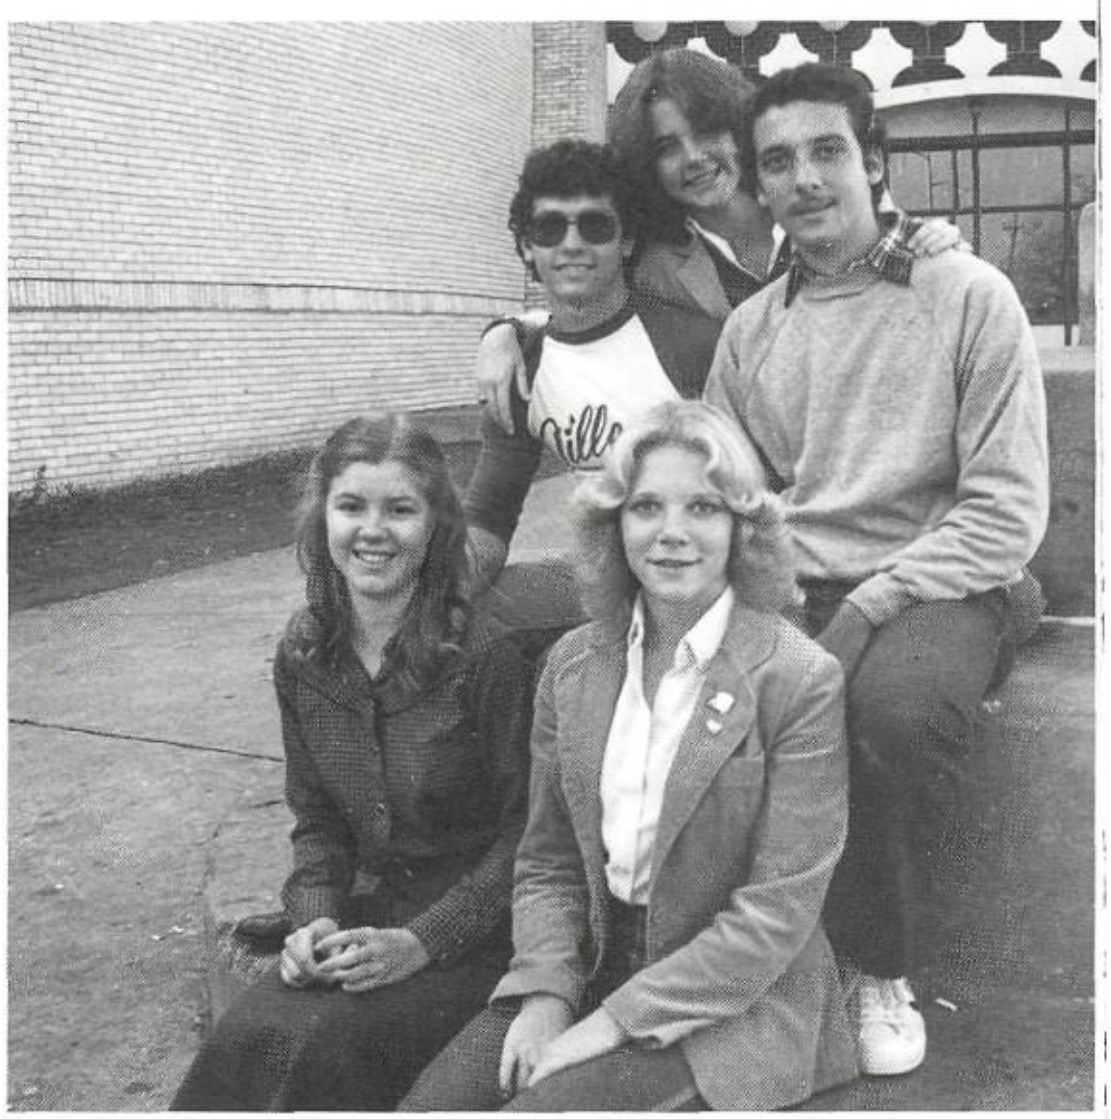
American Field Service



AFS, which stands for the American Field Service, is an organization which allows students from all over the world to live in different countries for one year and to learn their language and customs. This year, the foreign exchange student here at East Central has been Marcio Evangelista, a Brazilian from Santa Estarina, Florianopolis, which is an island off the coast of Brazil. Marcio says that he has enjoyed his stay here and is involved with the swim team. The club meets every first and third Fridays of each month. The sponsor of the club is Mrs. Camille Wean. There was an AFS day held at East Central and other exchange students were here.

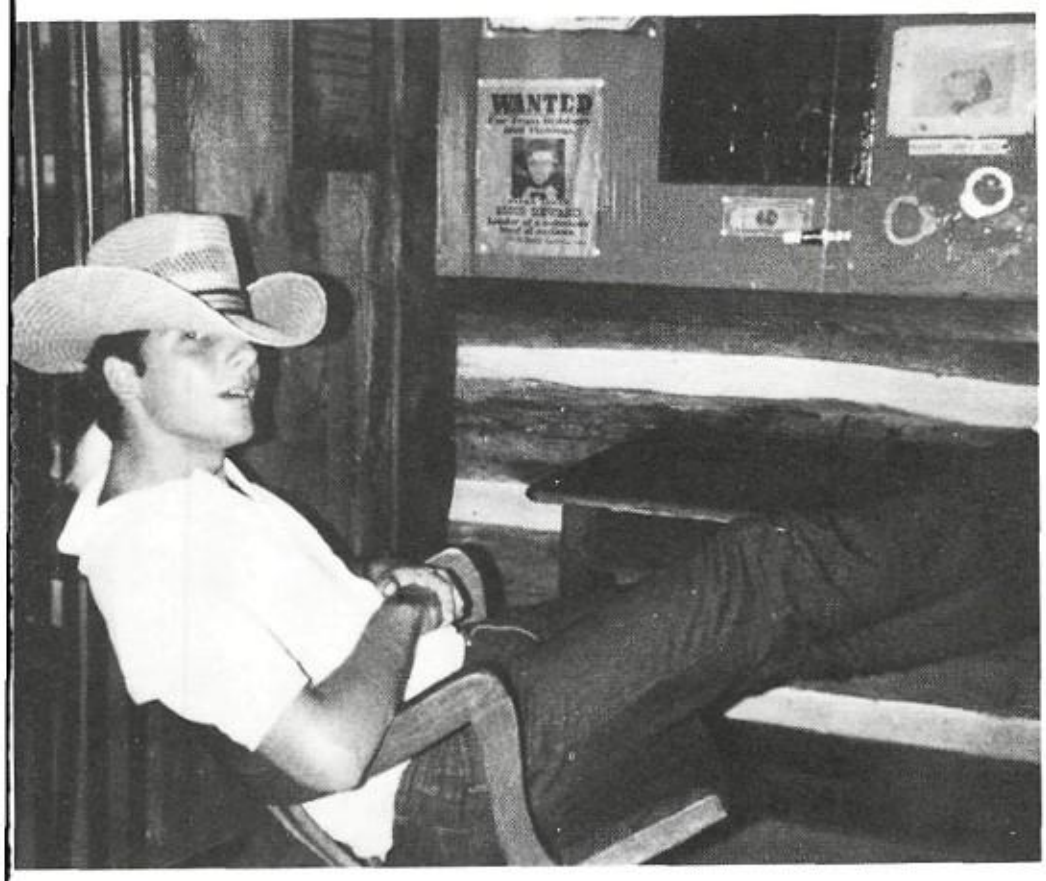
Marcio's favorite past time . . .

AFS Student: Marcio Evangilista . . .



Even though Tulsa is somewhat different than his hometown in Brazil, Marcio Evangilista, East Central's foreign exchange student, is enjoying his stay in the United States very much. Marcio arrived in Tulsa two weeks before the start of school, after stops in New York and Dallas. "My brother lived in the United States, so I knew what it was like. Also I didn't expect cowboys and Indians." Six months of conversational English grammar helped Marcio's transition to Tulsa from his home in Santa Estarina on the island of Florianopolis, off the coast of Brazil. "This city is more developed than many town. The people are also different," he observed. Mr. and Mrs. Michael Attala are Marcio's host family for his stay in Tulsa. A host family is chosen by matching the interests of the foreign student and a potential host family. Marcio is involved in the swimming team at school, but likes all kinds of sports. "I enjoy all sports, but I like sailing the best." Said Marcio on his experience as a AFS student so far: "I like meeting new people and learning the new language."

The "Senior" Class

This year's senior officers had their hands full as soon as the year started. The officers had to deal with many problems, the main one being money. But the Crystallusions fund raiser proved to be the solution the senior class needed. With the money raised there was enough for the prom and the annual senior class gift to the school. This year the prom was held at the Tulsa Home Builders Association and a professional decorator helped with the decorations. The senior officers also picked the commencement speaker, Steve Davis. This year the SR's also took part in a new activity: the class picture, which was a surprising success.

Journalism

The journalism department is responsible for producing the "Cardinal Tale Feathers", East Central's monthly newspaper. In addition to writing articles for the paper, they must design the layouts, paste up the paper, and gather ads for each issue. The journalism students sold posters this year as a fund raiser, to insure the paper's production.
